TimeFrame

Database Design

For my application, since i will be using Google spreadsheets and google Calendar, I will be using their API to create my information needed. Since google has their own database system, I won't need to use an external database system.

Table Design

The design of the table will be a correlation between days and task. The task number and correlation of days assigned to it. This will be the relationship to keep track of the project management.